

SECY. DANIELS HURLS BOLT OF SARCASM AT HARDING'S STAND ON LEAGUE

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 11.—The Republican attitude toward the League of Nations was described as a "straddle" and the party was accused of paltering with the greatest moral issue that ever confronted mankind, in an address by Secretary of the Navy Daniels at a political rally here today.

Secretary Daniels referred to the speech of Governor Coolidge at Portsmouth, N.H., as a dexterous attempt to extricate his party from its "selfish and parochial position" and said the burden of the governor's address was that America must mix with men and prosper and not isolate itself from the world.

"The first half of his speech," said Mr. Daniels, "was to declare for American participation in world affairs and the second half was to repudiate the straddle policy of his party. Governor Coolidge had to repudiate his splendid record of American duty to the world, as well as to us. And he made a lame and impotent conclusion by approving Harding's toothless Hague tribunal and lauding such resolutions to the league as were put there to begot the issue and enable Republican senators to scuttle without assuming responsibility for going back upon the noble issue for which American lads fought and died."

"Let nobody be too hard on Governor Coolidge. He has a bad case, but insofar as he expressed the views we all entertained when we entered the war, he voices national resolve that this world should never again be cursed by war. Insofar as he left that solid path of duty, it is clear he was impelled to do so by the repudiating attitude of the head of the ticket."

"What is the Republican attitude on the League of Nations? Does anybody know? Does Harding know? Does Coolidge know? If so, are not the voters entitled to be told instead of asked to vote in the dark?"

Here in Maine on the Atlantic coast, Governor Coolidge advocates American participation in world affairs. In California, Hiram Johnson and Roach declare we must have no alliances or participation in any enterprise that touches European nations, and the latter under will have no part of the league, no matter how many nullifying reservations Mr. Lodge attaches to it. "East is east and west is west."

PROBERS REFUSE TO SUMMON GOV. COX; WILL ADJOURN UNTIL SEPTEMBER 22ND

NEWSPAPERMAN PLACED CHICAGO QUOTA $700,000 FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY

(BULLETIN)
CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The senate committee investigating campaign expenditures completed its inquiry here today after noon today and recessed to meet either in New York or Washington September 22.

Plans to meet in Pittsburgh have been abandoned, Chairman Kenyon announced.

Four witnesses who failed to appear today, will be heard in the east. They are William Wrigley, Jr., Charles Piz, Jr., of Chicago; W. A. Woodford, of Cleveland, and George T. Carroll, of Elizabeth, N. J.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Refusal to summon Governor Cox as a witness before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures was announced today by Senator Kenyon, chairman.

He gave out a telegram received from Frank A. Munsey, eastern publisher, demanding that the Democratic presidential nominee be subpoenaed.

Senator Kenyon's reply was to the effect that Edmund H. Moore had appeared before the committee as personal representative of the Ohio executive and the committee considered that sufficient.

Senator Kenyon said the telegram from Mr. Munsey was typical of hundreds received by him and other members of the committee and indicated that the public announcement of the Munsey message was made in the hope that it might serve as answer to other telegrams and letters which might be in prospect.

Frederick Courtenay Barber, of New York, testified that he was brought to Chicago to organize a seven day drive in this city for the $200,000 which Barry M. Blair said was the Chicago quota. Mr. Barber said he had conducted about sixty similar campaigns for political, civic and philanthropic purposes. He then described the method of organization, saying there were seven divisions and 45 teams of about a dozen men each and for the subdivisions so that nearly 3,000 workers all told were provided for. He said the "titular head" of the drive was Charles Piz, chairman of an executive committee of twenty-five. He said there was a "preferred list" of between 700 and 800 names, these prospects all being men who were considered capable of giving $1,000 each.

"Did you ever hear $700,000 mentioned as the amount to be raised in Chicago?" Senator Reed asked.

"Only casually, once or twice," said Mr. Barber and he added that he did not recall who made the remark.

Senator Reed then asked if that amount had not been named in authorized statements sent from headquarters to Chicago newspapers. The witness said he had no definite knowledge of that circumstance.

Caleb Eads, assistant city editor of the Chicago Daily News, was then called to the stand. He said he had received an announcement from Republican headquarters naming $700,000 as the Chicago quota and had used the information in a news story.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The senate committee investigating presidential expenditures opened its final hearing today with Senator Edge of New Jersey absent. Senator Edge in a statement said that the "stunt foot" charges made by Governor Cox, Democratic presidential candidate had been given even more consideration than his irresponsible charges warrant.

Governor Cox had charged that the Republicans were planning to raise a $15,000,000 campaign fund.

Today's hearing was marked by the appearance of "girls employed at the international revenue office at Aberdeen, S. D. Representative Royal C. Johnson, of that state charged the girl employees were solicited for $500 each, to aid the Democratic campaign.

It was planned to have the final testimony which will also take up Republican fund raising in Chicago, concluded by noon today, and the remaining four committee members expected to leave shortly after.

The next session will be held September 22, according to present plans, at some eastern city to be selected by Senator Kenyon.

Senator Reed today asked that Charles Piz, former president of the emergency fleet corporation and now chairman of the Republican ways and means committee in Chicago, be subpoenaed to tell of the fund drive in Chicago. The Missouri senator also asked that William Wrigley, Jr., and Frederick Courtenay Barber, the latter of whom is the $600 a week director of the Chicago drive, be summoned.

WILSON APPOINTS RED CROSS WOMAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 11.—President Wilson today appointed Mabel T. Boardman, for many years a member of the executive committee of the American Red Cross to be a commissioner of the District of Columbia, effective next Wednesday on the retirement of Commissioner Brownlow, resigned.

The appointment makes Miss Boardman the first woman to be a member of the commission which directs the entire government of the district.

Stolen Loot Recovered

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Crowds of suburban residents, rushing for last trains at Grand Central station early today, scurried for cover during a pistol battle between Jacob Mendel, station restaurant proprietor and three men who knocked him down and taken his day's cash of $2,000.

Two of the men after their weapons had been emptied, were arrested and the third calmly left the station among the scores of police who were called. When the police followed a winding stairway leading down into a bakery shop, their flashlights revealed the fugitive, stuck in a barrel of flour, clutching the bag of money.

REVOLT IN TRIEST

TRIEST, Sept. 10.—A revolt has broken out in this city, and Socialist forces and government troops are engaged in heavy fighting, the artillery, machine and machine gun firing being continued. Bombs are being used by the contending forces. Barricades have been erected and trenches dug in the streets of the city, and the Socialists are armed and provided with ammunition.

SEN. HARDING PAYS RESPECTS TO PRESENT ADMINISTRATION

MARION, O., Sept. 11.—In a double-barreled attack on the administration Senator Harding charged today that Democratic officials had been guilty of "reckless inefficiency" in their conduct of the nation's business affairs and had sought through "duplicitous or unscrupulous" means to have the United States surrender its Monroe doctrine in becoming a member of the League of Nations.

His own policy toward the business world he declared would put an end to ineffective meddling by the government, wipe out many war time restraints, seek readjustment of tariff levels and taxation and establish a new co-operation between government and private enterprises. Having restored a condition of sober business again, he added, he would summon the aid of the ablest administrators of the country to put the government itself on an efficient basis.

"Appalling," he declared, "the conspiracy of perfect accord" between the administration and the Democratic presidential nominee to perpetuate war powers of the executive Senator Harding declared the government had been "so twisted out of shape" that reorganization in many of its departments was necessary before it could again function properly.

Discussing the Monroe doctrine the Republican nominee asserted that the English and French texts of the league covenant apparently were in direct contradiction, the former bearing the limitation that the doctrine was not to be over-riden by any provision of the covenant while the French phraseology clearly would make the doctrine subordinate to the covenant. In any case of dispute, he added, the league council undoubtedly would decide the French text was the official one.

"One wishes to be both charitable and considerate," he continued. "But it is hard to believe this very marked discrepancy was perpetrated without intention."

The senator's declarations on the Monroe doctrine and on business issues were made in two front porch speeches to delegations of business men from Chicago and several Michigan and Indiana cities. Through them he said he wanted to send a message of reassurance to all Americans interested in business. Deprecating the tendency to think of business only in terms of "big business" the nominee declared success in financial affairs should no longer be held a crime, but that the people should realize that sound financial conditions were for the common good. He advocated the establishment of a budget system in the federal government, declared the postal service must be put on a new basis, and continued:

"We must repeal and wipe out a mass of executive orders and laws which falling to serve effectively that purpose serve only to leave American business in anxiety, uncertainty and darkness."

"We must readjust our tariff and this time with especial regard for the new economic measures to our American agriculture as well as factory."

"We must readjust our internal taxation, especially the excise profits tax, to remove the burden it imposes upon the small to create and produce, whether that will be the will of the big corporation, the small corporation, or of the individual."

SPRIT OF COMPROMISE IN INDUSTRIAL SITUATION

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 10.—Excitement in this city, as to the possible decision of the Confederation of Labor relative to the movement on the part of metal workers to occupy and operate industrial plants throughout Italy.

There is a spirit of compromise in the air, and it is believed that meetings between employers and representatives of workers, which continued today, will result in some sort of adjustment of the situation.

KILLED BY SHERIFF

ELYRIA, O., Sept. 11.—George Koehls of this place, died at six o'clock this morning as the result of a desperate gun battle last evening, in which Sheriff N. D. Backus shot to kill. The shooting occurred at La Porte, five miles southeast of here.

Prior to the arrival of the sheriff and two deputies, James Farrell, prominent Elyrian, narrowly escaped death at the hands of the desperate Koehls, in a fight which started in a La Porte house which is said to have a tainted reputation. The occupants of the house fled and notified the authorities. The officers chased Koehls down into a ravine behind the house, where occurred the gun battle in which Koehls was finally mortally wounded. In the exchange of shots one of the deputies escaped miraculously, and it is believed that it was only through shooting to kill that Sheriff Backus saved his own life as well as that of La Porte house which is said to have a tainted reputation. COUGHLIN BABE DEAD?

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—Another clue given the police by August Pasquale, "The Crank," was proved false yesterday when the alleged kidnapper of Blakely Coughlin was confronted in his cell in the Norristown jail by Rose Donnell, a waitress, who the police said, answers the description by Pasquale of the mysterious Rose who the prisoner declared had the missing baby. Pasquale said, according to the authorities, that he meant another Rose who was a waitress in the same restaurant. Miss Donnell denied all knowledge of the kidnapping and said Pasquale was merely trying to build an alibi for himself.

The police say they feel confident the child is dead.

TO NAME SUCCESSOR
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—The successor of Judge Kent W. Hughes, judge, who recently resigned after being nominated on the party ticket for Judge of the supreme court, will be selected Thursday by the Democratic state central committee, which yesterday accepted his resignation.

The committee appointed Charles J. Frazier, West Alexandria and W. F. Strick, Valley City, to fill the vacancies created by the resignations of H. H. Tinner, Ingomar, and Charles Frank, Medina, presidential electors, in the third and fourteenth districts, respectively.

Big Gasser Is Struck

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 11.—A gas well with a flow of 20,000 feet was struck at North Lima, near here, yesterday by residents of that village who had formed a company to provide a supply to take the place of the failing production hitherto piped from New Springfield. Another well will be drilled at once. It is expected that the drilling will furnish a five years' supply.

David Lawrence Begins Election Forecast; Says Sen. Harding Will Carry Minnesota; Next Story Will Deal With North Dakota

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920 by Portsmouth Daily Times)

"This is the first of a series of dispatches to be published daily during September and October giving an analysis of political sentiment in all northern and western states to be followed by a detailed forecast of the presidential election."

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Sept. 10.—Governor Cox has gone west; Senator Harding has gone back to Marion. The east like the south, is more or less set in its political ways. If therefore there is a chance for an upset as occurred in 1916, the west would be likely to exhibit the first symptoms. Also, distances are great in the western country and the number of voters is relatively small, so the trend can be more definitely assessed west of the Mississippi river during September than it can east of that line. For the eastern states are populous and sometimes a drift sets in about the middle of October that changes the aspect of political tides quite materially.

Besides, Governor Cox is just now launching the west and the writer has determined to trail the Democratic nominee and judge if possible how much headway he makes in this western country. Not much can be gotten by merely watching the crowds as they are thrilled by oratorical effort and a pleasing personality. More can be gained by talking a day or two after fully across not to disclose the source of his information thus picks up in walks of life, business men, large and small, laborers, farmers, political workers and newspapermen of both Republican and Democratic affiliation.

So the writer will spend the remainder of September studying every western state and will begin about the first week in October to analyze conditions in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and the Atlantic Seaboard where changes, if they do occur, occur in the last moments of the campaign and where Senator Harding and Governor Cox will be found at that time working to win the states with the big electoral votes. New York's forty five votes and Ohio's twenty-four can offset half of the entire west.

Of course nobody who spends a day or two in any state can hope to go away cocksure of that state but in three cases out of ten a disinterested reporter can draw deductions from the optimistic or pessimistic tone of the broad-minded men in a community who are not guided by partisanship. Three men will have been making analyses of their own states for many weeks before the traveling reporter arrives. Sometimes, for local reasons, the resident newspapermen do not print all that they feel about their own states. The political wayfarer, fully across not to disclose the source of his information thus picks up in walks of life, business men, large and small, laborers, farmers, political workers and newspapermen of both Republican and Democratic affiliation.

PLAN FOR RALLY

The committee on attendance of the First Presbyterian Sunday School has issued a very attractive form of appeal for attendance at the Sabbath School Rally tomorrow, Sept. 12. It is in the form of a four leaf program with pictures of the church and Sunday School Superintendent, George D. Scudder. The invitation was issued without the knowledge of Mr. Scudder and he was greatly surprised when he got hold of one of the cards. The plan of the Attendance Committee is not merely to have a big day Sunday but a continuous program of increased interest throughout the winter months.

Reds Lose First Game

The Reds' pennant chances received a setback this afternoon when they dropped the first game of a double bill in Boston, 5 to 4. Luque and Hing did the hurting. Brooklyn visited St. Louis to the tune of 15 to 1.

Rev. Dailey To Fill Pulpit

Rev. E. H. Dailey of Jackson will be here Sunday to fill the pulpit of the United Brethren church, Seventh and Gay streets. He was recently appointed to take the local pastorate in the place of Rev. Srofe Heads Association

The Columbus Dispatch Friday said: The splendid work of Mr. Srofe as fish and game protector of Adams county for a number of years was given special recognition recently when he was elected president of the Ohio Fish and Game Protectors' Association. The duties of Mr. Srofe are probably more difficult than those of any other game protector because of the wildness of Adams county and the lack of railroad facilities in the county. It is the only county in which the county seat is not reached by a railroad. Srofe lives in Winchester.

$200 Missing; Forger Suspected Of Theft

Clarence Huston reported to police Friday that $200 was missing from the top of a dresser in his room. Huston told police he was out of his room for a few minutes and when he returned the money was gone. Police are looking for a man who occupied a room at the house Thursday and who disappeared Friday shortly after the money is supposed to have disappeared. His description is said to correspond identically with that of the alleged check forger who has been operating in the city for the past few days and police believe he is the same man also sailing under the name of James Blair and many other aliases.

Huston told police that he had withdrawn the $200 from a local bank with the idea of depositing it with a savings and loan company, and when he went to his room to get the money it was gone.

No trace has been found of the missing boarder, although the police have scoured the city for him.

NEW BOSTON PREPARES TO GO AFTER THE SPEEDERS

New Boston Council, meeting in special session Friday night, authorized the police, fire and market committee to purchase a motorcycle to be used by a traffic policeman in chasing speeding automobiles and traffic violators. There was considerable discussion as to the amount of fine that should be imposed on persons caught speeding and although no decision was reached Mayor J. S. Davis said later that he had $25 and $50 as the amounts in mind to be imposed on first offenders. One of these amounts will be the set fine for the first offenders.

and the penalty will be very stiff for a second offense. At this rate the motorcycle will soon pay for itself. The fire committee was also instructed to meet next Monday to discuss the matter of buying new fire fighting apparatus for the village. The outcome will be no doubt a new fire truck that will meet the needs of a village the size of New Boston.

An ordinance was passed authorizing the imposing of fines on persons caught manufacturing, selling or giving away intoxicating liquor. Fines collected under the ordinance will cause the money to go into the village treasury instead of state or federal treasury.

GOVERNOR COX READS LETTERS TO REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FUNDS

BELLINGHAM, WASH., Sept. 11.—Further information on Republican campaign funds in this state was presented by Governor Cox in an early morning address made here today upon the Democratic presidential candidates arrival from Walla Walla. The governor read a copy of a letter, purporting to have been written by H. F. Alexander as "chairman, finance committee of the Republican party" reporting under subscriptions of allotments and requesting contributions. The letter, Governor Cox said, was additional evidence in support of his charges of a Republican "corruption fund."

"Each day," said the governor, "new evidence is forthcoming at the senate investigation at Chicago, evidence from Republican sources, bearing out the charges I have made of the creation of a huge corruption fund to buy the presidency. At Spokane, upon my entrance in the state of Washington I was met with a question which I answered with the evidence from immediate Republican sources in Spokane of the assessment and quota which I had charged. I now read to you another letter from Republican sources showing the amount which has been raised at other places in this state. The letter follows:

"Am making a last appeal for funds for the election of a Republican president and congress. If you, as a business man do not appreciate personally the necessity of a return to the constitution I am not going to offer any money. Seattle has raised $60,000 of its $65,000 allotment. Practically every county has come through, several having over-subscribed. In Pierce county we have raised only a third of our quota of $20,000. A number of Seattle business men contributed $1,000 each.

FORGER GETS BUSY IN NEW BOSTON

An echo came from the alleged "check forger," James Blair, this afternoon when checks were returned to two New Boston merchants, found to be bogus.

Cooper Bros. general store on Gallia avenue and the Harrisonville place was fleeced out of $45.00 when they accommodated a well dressed man by cashing his check September 3rd. F. E. Cooper, a member of the firm cashed the check which was signed J. P. Amburg. The check was drawn on the First National Bank.

C. E. Stewart, 3064 Gallia street was also a victim of the check forger when he sold the man a pair of shoes and a pair of socks Friday. A check for $32.50 was tendered in payment. It was signed by J. W. Chatham and made payable to James R. Birch.

Both merchants describe the check forger as being about 30 years of age, well dressed and apparently a clean cut young man.

Jewish New Year To Be Celebrated Monday

Rabbi Hyman Loh, of Cincinnati, is in the city and will have charge of the New Year services at the local Jewish Temple, Third and Washington streets, Sunday evening and Monday, Monday, September 13, the festival of the New Year (Rosh Hashana), will be observed by the Jews of the entire world. Like all the other Jewish holy days, the festival commences at sunset on the preceding day.

The festival of New Year is one of the most important in the whole Jewish calendar. It is the first of a series of holidays lasting nearly a month. It is likewise the beginning of the Jewish religious year and one of its principal features is the blowing of the Shofar or ram's horn.

Apart from its religious and festive nature, Rosh Hashana is rich in moral import and significance. The fact that it is the New Year lends it special significance. It is the time of higher resolves, the turning point of the year. It is the time which brings home to the Jew with great force the lesson that time is short and the work is great, and that, as each year rolls quickly by, the task must be accomplished within a shorter period. The festival is a gentle reminder of the brevity of human existence, but it optimistically stresses the doctrine that man, far from being a plaything in the hands of fate, can realize his life's work if he but takes advantage of the safety doctrine moments.

It is the time which brings home to the Jew with great force the lesson that time is short and the work is great, and that, as each year rolls quickly by, the task must be accomplished within a shorter period. The festival is a gentle reminder of the brevity of human existence, but it optimistically stresses the doctrine that man, far from being a plaything in the hands of fate, can realize his life's work if he but takes advantage of the safety doctrine moments.

The festival of New Year is one of the most important in the whole Jewish calendar. It is the first of a series of holidays lasting nearly a month. It is likewise the beginning of the Jewish religious year and one of its principal features is the blowing of the Shofar or ram's horn.

Apart from its religious and festive nature, Rosh Hashana is rich in moral import and significance. The fact that it is the New Year lends it special significance. It is the time of higher resolves, the turning point of the year. POLITICS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 11.—The German people can be best served by having the United States a member of the league of nations," declared Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, in an address before a large gathering of Greenfields, Saturday afternoon, W. A. Julian, candidate for United States senator also addressed the meeting.

Senator Owen said that the United States as a member of the league "would be able to mitigate the distress of the German people and help them to renew their industrial life." He further stated that America would be glad to extend to Germany financial aid and arrange loans not subject to the fluctuations of exchange, "so that Germany could borrow in dollars and pay in dollars."

The address was listened to with the greatest interest by many people of German extraction and it made a profound impression here where an attempt has been made to array those of German extraction against the league of nations.

Senator Owen continued his attack on the "conspiracy" of great New York banking houses, which, he charged, had leagued together to establish abnormal rates of interest on call loans for the purpose of creating industrial depression and searing bankers and business men over the country, "at a time when America should be enjoying her greatest prosperity and with the greatest crops ever raised by any nation on earth."

William A. Julian of Cincinnati, democratic candidate for the United States senate, discussed the rights of the farmers for larger representation in governmental affairs, the expansion of foreign trade, the federal reserve act, Newberryism, League of Nations, and other issues of vital interest to the voters of the state. He talked in a straight from the shoulder, business man like conversational tone that deeply impressed his hearers.

The speaker scolded with the crowd when he said: "I advocate rigid economy in government expenditures, thus enabling us to reduce the cost of living and the burden borne by the wage earner."

Attacking the expenditures of Republican candidates for state office he called attention to the sworn statement of Harry L. Davis, Republican candidate for governor, who admits having spent $13,000 and of Frank B. Willis, republican candidate for United States senator in whose behalf $17,000 was spent. Declaring that if elected he would vote to oust Newberry from the senate he repeated his question to his opponent to tell the voters how he stood on ousting Newberry.

He prefaced his reference to the League of Nations as an instrument for permanent peace with the statement "I believe our country should treat the ex-soldier with the greatest liberality. He made a dignified peace possible and civilization should not forget the debt to him."

Aha! Herrmann Takes Action On Games

CINCINNATI, O., September 11.—August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Nationals, raised the question today, whether two games between the New York and Boston Nationals, postponed last Tuesday, can legally be played at the Giants ground on September 28.

Herrmann in a telegram he sent to Business Manager Frank Bancroft, of the Reds, instructed Bancroft to ask John A. Herdler, president of the National League for a ruling on the point. Herrmann stated that he does not want to do anything to prevent the games from being played, but he thinks that under the circumstances, the games, if played at all, will have to be contested at the Boston grounds, where they were scheduled.

Suffering of Young Women.
This letter tells how it may be overcome—all mothers interested.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—From the time my daughter was 13 years old until she was 16 she suffered so badly each month that sometimes I had to call in the doctor. She had headaches, backache and such pains and cramps that she could not leave her bed for three or four days. She became so nervous and irritable that she was a terror to all at last a friend who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People told her about it. She bought a box and took it as directed and in a few days she was all right. We always praise it and advise our friends who suffer from such troubles to use it.

Quite Likely.
American women believe with an inclination to endorsement, it is stated, have taken to putting dimples on their noses. The report that a fashionable New Yorker who does not care for the water has created the new nose dimple by putting a rubber point at the end of her nose is probably premature.

last week of the entire conference.

This morning's session consisted of a short devotional service led by Bishop Henderson followed by conference business. At 1:30 the ministers and laymen enjoyed an automobile ride about the city and its environs. A number of the machines being furnished by the Portsmouth Automobile Club. After the ride conference business, if necessary, will be concluded at a 3:30 session.

Tonight there will be no meeting at the church and instead an open air meeting will be held on the Market Square with the Conference Male Quartets, and Conference and Ohio District
Quartets furnishing the music.

An address will be given by Rev.
J. C. Guenther of Cincinnati.

Sunday will be a big day at the Conference Institutions Meeting

2:30 P. M., Friday

Rev. J. J. Schaaf of Cincinnati, O., chairman.

The first speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. G. F. Hauser, of Berea, O., the superintendent of the Methodist Orphan Home at Berea, Ohio. He said in part: "It should always be a cause for thankfulness that we have a place for the orphan, who may be thrown on our hands by death of the parents. This home is one, the like of which you will find no where else.

We are caring for 120 children. Six boys came to us only the last week.
They soon get accustomed to one another and fit in well. We feel they are our children. Last week 15 started to go to school. You should see them at a meal. We give them plenty of good nourishing food. The home is kept scrupulously clean. We have very little sickness in our home as the physicians of the home report. We give them a good Christian training.

The expenses of the home for this year show an increase of $2,000 over the preceding year. You know why.
But the church is supplying the needed funds and the Lord God is with us."

The second speaker, the Rev. F. O.
Barz of Cincinnati, Ohio, represented the interests of the Bethesda hospital and branches of which he is the financial secretary. In his address he said: "We have reason for great thanksgiving for the various institutions of the church. Aside of all the other activities we had 1,500 operations; in the maternity hospital 850 children were born. Then we have a children's hospital doing great good.

We have the training school, the Dorcas institute, preparing young women for Christian activities, along the lines of special work. Some are preparing to be deaconesses, other missionaries. Some are prepared to become trained nurses; some missionaries are trained here for their responsible work. We need 250 recruits for this branch of our work. We need your cooperation and prayers.

Friday Evening, 7:15
Diamond Jubilee Baldwin-Wallace
College

Rev. G. E. Hiller, D. D., of Lafayette,
Ind., chairman.

The first speaker was Bishop Henderson. He said 25 years of one kind of education will change the phase of the world. Nothing should take the place of the public school. But the church must furnish additional education, which the state cannot furnish.
It is not the function of the state to teach religion.

Plants can grow only in a favorable climate. There must be created a kingdom climate for this education.
The student is inclined to follow his professor, not the fellow student.
Kingdom flowers will grow only in the Christian climate.

You ought to have your children in that school that creates the most favorable atmosphere for their spiritual life. We have a right to expect a far larger Christian product from our church supported school than the state institutions.

We will feel the war for a century to come. It has put us in a bad way in many ways. We must naturally find recruits for the kingdom in the Christian home and Christian college.

People leave the country and village for the city—commercialized life. Our deaconesses do not come from the city. Same is true as to ministers.
They call to the ministry is a challenge to get ready for that work.

Diamonds are polished at Baldwin-Wallace College, but we can not polish sap wood. No one can polish sap wood.
If I had but one life to invest, I would invest it to polish diamonds for the kingdom of God. If I had but one gift to give, I would invest it in a Christian college.

What is the crying need of the church? The Christian minister is the foundation for all Christian enterprises. You as ministers have no greater duty than to turn the faces of your young people to Baldwin-Wallace College with the challenge for Christian work. We can not get the recruits necessary unless we send out young people to these institutions.

We must create atmosphere that will make sacrifice gleam brighter than the nurses $40 per week. Baldwin-Wallace has the grateful opportunity to raise the payroll leadership for the world.

The best place to polish some of our rough diamonds is Baldwin-Wallace College.

The conference male chorus and the conference male quartette sang selections which were appropriate and show the musical talent of the conference.

Dr. Albert B. Storrs, president of the Baldwin-Wallace College at Berea, Ohio, gave an illustrated address giving good views of buildings and surroundings of the institution.

He said, the Christian college has had a most important place in the education of the people. We live in a great day—sorrow, disappointment, Europe has it all the worse. We have not tasted its real bitterness. I do not like to think of a reconstructed world as it was yesterday. We must come to a higher and better construction of the world. Our recruits for the ministry come from the smaller places, not from the large cities. The Christian college is coming into its own. The challenge of opportunity is there. The Christian has its most important place for opportunity for the church and the world. Baldwin-Wallace should serve in the future as in the past and in a greater measure.
We are facing a new crisis. We must meet the competition of the best colleges of the land. Each man must be an expert in his line. These tests must be met. The institution must increase its endowment.

Prof. Fred Koehn, of the Baldwin-
Wallace College at Berea, Ohio, said:
"Baldwin-Wallace College is a great college. The emblem of America seems to be the dollar bill; but we are not satisfied with one, and the college needs a million. We train teachers and other Christian workers as well as preachers at Baldwin-Wallace. Baldwin-Wallace is preparing the sons and daughters of the several nationalities for Christian service.
We have our problems and we are trying to solve them. But we need the cooperation to solve these problems. This school offers the opportunity of overcoming racial prejudice and thereby preventing war."

Saturday Morning, 8:30
Bishop Henderson led the devotion.
(Eph. 3:5)

The journal of yesterday's session was read and approved. Names of the pastors of the Michigan and Ohio districts were called and they reported the number of conversions and century contributions.

Rev. Otto E. Hancier, Montague,
Mich.; Rev. Edward L. Melsbach,
Grand Rapids, Mich.; Rev. F. W. Ko-konor, Rev. Victor E. Pfeiffer, will be ordained as deacons. Alfred Wellsmeyer, Holland, Ind., was received on trial. Also John B. Tamy.

Laymen's Association Meeting
The Laymen's Association of the Conference met in annual session Friday. The attendance of this session was not up to the standard and as a result of the meeting a committee on policy was appointed. The committee's work for next year is to get out a victory statement. By picture much publicity to the annual meeting of the Association it is hoped to increase the interest and attendance.

Officers were also elected Friday as follows: President, W. G. Galvin, Batesville, Ind.; Vice President, Ohio
District, W. G. Diller, Columbus;
Vice President, Michigan District, W.

OUR AVERAGE RATE FOR GAS PURCHASED AT THE CITY GATES 1919 AND 1920 WAS 20 CENTS PER THOUSAND CUBIC FEET. THE NEW RATE NAMED OF 30 CENTS EFFECTIVE SEPT. 1, 1920 IS THEREFORE AN INCREASE OF 50 PER CENT OVER AVERAGE RATE FOR THE PAST TWO YEARS. THE PROPOSED RATE SCHEDULE NO. 5 FILED WITH THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO CONTEMPLATES A NET RATE OF 40 CENTS PER THOUSAND CUBIC FEET OR AN INCREASE IN THE CONSUMERS RATE OF 33 1/3 PER CENT. THUS THE INCREASE IN PROPOSED NEW RATE WILL BE REFLECTED IN PRICE OF GAS PURCHASED AT THE CITY GATES.

Cordell declare we must go in or stay out with our allies to insure world peace, each proposing some sort of amendment which may or may not be workable. But they stand against the latter end. This is the Atlantic seaboard plan for peace lovers to vote for Harding and an intervention. On the other hand, Johnson and Borah declare any co-operation as subversive of American policy and rights and declare they will fight any attempt for such international agreements to the bitter end.

"Is this conflict of opinion irreconcilable? Will the Republicans split on such divergent views? Are their convictions stronger than their hatred and envy of Wilson? Will either side of these vocal partisans go to the bat for their position? Not on your life. Where will they find a place for common and united opposition where they can all declare by their actions, not out of harmony with their dignity."

"We stand at Armageddon and grapple for the Lord."

"Fortunately for them, unfortunately for our country, there is a common divisor at Marion, living at most equidistant from Johnson and his bitter ends at the Golden Gate, and Coolidge and his opposition to isolation at San Francisco. Harding furnishes the common ground. He speaks often. His speeches recall the statement of 'Gardner, the English writer, who, speaking of a certain eminent British statesman said:

"He talks much on every subject, but nobody has ever found who remembers any thing he has ever said."

"But the demand for a clear and unequivocal statement by the presidential candidate became so persistent that Colonel George Harvey and other eminent statesmen hurried to Marion for a conference. And later Senator Harding came down with a straight policy. He did not repudiate his vote for the league with the Lodge withdrawal policy. That would offend some. He therefore made a clear, straightforward, and convincing and unequivocal declaration that he stood for the Hague tribunal. The mountain was in labor and brought forth a mouse."

"We made this declaration for all time and henceforth, looking at the same time with a straight face in San Francisco, and Calvin in Boston. But Gamaliel could not even convince himself that this belated approval of the late Czar's creation, which not even many sincere men could galvanize into a semblance of life, would go down with the most genuine. He therefore added, with a solemn emphasis that to the Hague tribunal he would, by turning dentist add the necessary teeth. But, pray tell us, who will furnish the gums and the jaw for the dental operation?"

"But the impossible has been accomplished—the satisfaction of politicians. The people are asked to accept a pig in a poke. Will they do it? Not unless they are tired of straight thinking and straight acting and wish to invest in a prize box, not knowing whether they will get a plated collar or the faded twenty dollar gold piece said to be placed in one of the prize boxes."

man and his ability in the past. Judge his own state, the task of analysis is bound to be reasonably accurate. Take Minnesota, for instance. Both Democratic and Republican newspapers will concede to you that as things look now Senator Harding will carry the state by a good majority. The third party movement failed to materialize and the only question in dispute among observers is whether the state will go for Harding by 100,000 or, as some conservatives put it, by 20,000. Any way no Democrat of standing is claiming Minnesota as close as it was in 1916, when Wilson almost won the electoral vote.

The reasons for Harding's strength here are quite simple. Much of the electorate is Scandinavian and German. The Germans are bitter against Wilson for his war record. They voted for the "He kept us out of war" slogan in 1916 because they wanted to be kept out of a war with their fatherland. They cherish resentment and will show it at the polls.

The Scandinavians are very much impressed by pacifist doctrine and many have been persuaded to believe the Republican campaign idea that the League of Nations means war instead of peace. Even though Norway and Sweden have joined the League, the Scandinavians here are against the League. Their opposition has been carefully cultivated by a Republican press. With only one or two exceptions, all the influential newspapers of Minnesota are Republican and have been feeding the people the Johnson doctrine. Even those who favor the League take their island behind Senator Kellogg, who voted for the Lodge reservations and the number who want the League as brought back by President Wilson is negligibly small. This territory is so friendly to Harding that it even draws a distinction between the managers of the Republican candidate and the nominee himself. For instance, the writer encountered considerable dissatisfaction here among Republicans with the course of the Republican national committee in juggling the senatorial investigation of campaign funds. It is a matter of common gossip that Governor Cox's figures of a $100,000 quota were correct and that the Republican leaders made a big mistake when they failed to explain it. Hereabouts, they don't think it is sinful to contribute $100,000 to run a campaign and they would have preferred an admission of the quotas coupled with a demand that Cox prove that any of the money was used for would be used for corrupt purposes. They think, too, that it was unwise to fall into Cox's trap by permitting the diversion of the public interest from the League issue to a discussion of imaginary quotas the size of which is not as important as the size of the funds actually raised and the method of their expenditure.

Minnesota liked Harding and will give him its twelve electoral votes next November. (The next article will deal with the situation in North Dakota.)

Harding Pays Respects

"We must give government co-operation. Business must protect American business at home, and we must aid and protect it abroad by the upbuilding of our merchant marine, and a restoration of our self-respecting measure of American protection to our citizens wherever they may go upon righteous errands."

"We must build our economic life into new strength and we must do it so that our prosperity shall not be the property of profiteers and of special privilege."

"American business has suffered from staggering blows because of too much ineffective meddling by the government. I refer not only to the conspiracy of 'perfect accord' by which it is hoped to perpetuate these powers, I am referring now to the fact that not only has the government been twisted out of shape, been distorted and meddling, and has been extending its activity to experiments beyond its powers, but also to the fact that it has floundered in every direction."

"It has engaged in political waste. The American people pay. It has kept its overburdened bureaus and departments, many of which are doing overlapping work in a prime condition of useless inefficiency. The American people pay. It has a record in the appointment of campaign-contributing diplomats who have been with our policy experience in foreign affairs. The American people pay. It has engaged in all kinds of costly training experiments of government management and ownership of enterprises which will establish an advance in government but that will waste and waste money."

"Here in America we have developed the most perfect and most efficient types of business organizations and administration in the world, they have shown the greatest variety of administrative ideas. We must build our administrative quality and structure into the service of the government and establish an advance in government but that will waste and waste money."

HUNGER STRIKE LORD SUFFERS A COLLAPSE

LONDON, September 11.—The three o'clock bulletin given out by the League, said the mayor was much worse. "He appears to have completely collapsed," the bulletin stated. "His mind is getting dull, but he is still conscious."

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, was still conscious this morning, although he passed a very bad night, and was in an extremely exhausted condition, according to a bulletin by the Irish Self-Determination League, following a report from Brixton prison where MacSwiney is continuing the hunger strike he began on August 12. He was suffering severe pain in the back and legs and was complaining of dizziness, the bulletin stated.

MUST SAVE GAS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—Necessity for conservation of natural gas again is emphasized in a statement issued by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission. The commission gave out information collected from its own files and other material pertinent, saying that it "deemed it prudent to place the facts before the public in order that consumers may not be deceived by those who ignorantly or purposely attempt to mislead them." It concludes by appealing to natural gas consumers "to assist in every way within their power to conserve the present diminishing supply that the service may be extended as long as possible."

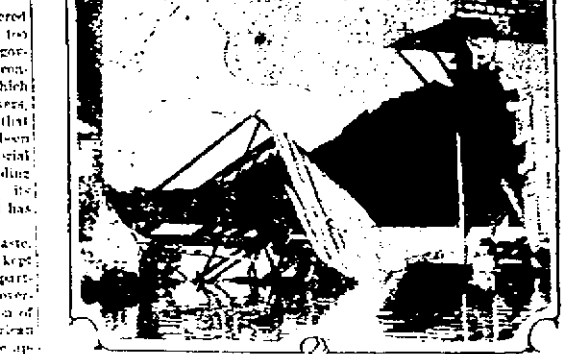

It calls attention to the Ohio-West Virginia suit, of which it is said that if lost to Ohio there would be sound "the death knell of natural gas service to Ohio communities now served from West Virginia." It is plainly indicated that the service will not be adequate in severe weather and hints at necessity of a gradual reduction in service. Its statement of other facts follows:
Diminution of the Supply
"It is shown that during the year 1918 these natural gas companies produced and purchased for consumption in Ohio 175,300,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas. In 1919 they produced and purchased 164,000,000,000 cubic feet. Through the demand was greatly increased the supply was diminished by 9,300,000,000 cubic feet. This diminution in supply is equal to the annual consumption of one city like Columbus or even like Newark."

The western trip would start during the last week in September and probably would include addresses at Indianapolis, Chicago, Louisville, St. Louis, Omaha, Boise City, Butte, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Denver, Oklahoma City and a number of other cities.

Tree That Sheltered Penn. One of Talbot county's historical trees was destroyed by storm recently, says an Eastern (D.H.) dispatch. The large white oak in the rear of the brick meeting house of the Society of Friends, known as Third Haven meeting house, was uprooted and fell with a crash. The tree made kindling wood of 50 feet of shingle where the Friends were wont to hitch their horses and teams when attending service. This tree was one of the original grove under which William Penn of Philadelphia preached when founding Maryland, and where Lord Baltimore at one time worshipped. A tree like this fell five years ago and about five years previous to that one other fell.

SCHOOL BOARD STILL WORKING ON NEW SALARIES FOR TEACHERS

At the meeting of the Board of Education last night, George Suter presented a petition signed by practically all residents of Scioto Trail within the corporate limits and the Boulevard, urging the board to provide means of transportation for the children of school age in those sections to and from school.

Mr. Suter was quite emphatic in the demands for his constituents that transportation means be provided at once and declared that it was unsafe for children to walk on the Scioto Trail, and that in winter months children are required to sit in school with wet feet.

"If we have to pay city taxes we ought to have transportation or walks," he said.

The matter was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion as to whether the school board has power to provide transportation for these students.

A statement from the Scioto Trail board of education for $2500 for tuition from February for students residing in territory recently annexed to Portsmouth but enrolled in Scioto Trail schools, was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion as to its validity.

A statement of $21250 from the New Boston board of education for tuition of students residing in Portsmouth territory but attending the New Boston schools was ordered paid.

On their bid of $225 The Schmidt Athletic Co. was given the contract for connecting six down spouts to sewer, and other similar work in the Eleventh street school.

Principal H. H. Eccles of the high school also was with the board in executive session on another matter, and no information as to the proceedings was given out. The caucus lasted for two hours.

Supt. Appel stated that the wage scale was being prepared, but that it would not be completed until probably the latter part of next week.

FIRST CHRISTIANS STRIVING TO REACH 1000 MARK SUNDAY

An indication that the fall rally of the First Christian Bible School tomorrow would be a distinct success, was gleaned from the mass meeting of the Local Men held at the church Friday evening, when Rev. Nate B. Crabtree of Stamford, Ill., was present and delivered a highly enthusiastic address that fired those present with the spirit to do their level best.

Rev. Crabtree was at one time the teacher of the Local Men's class and he took all sorts of liberties in talking to the members, who were tuned up to the proper pitch and ready to chuck their coats and roll up their sleeves in a great drive Saturday when every member of the class would be visited and given a most urgent invitation to be present tomorrow.

When the men hope to have not less than 200 in their class.

It was announced by the superintendent of the school that Rev. Crabtree would direct the singings at the Bible School hour and there seems to be no question he will respond to the urgent request to render a vocal solo.

There is no question but that Crabtree will put a whole lot of vim into the Bible school services and judging from reports from all centers, the mark of 1000 will be reached and then some.

It is the hope of the officers to get the big school moving in high gear tomorrow and keep it up for the balance of the year.

And while the men and in fact all adult classes are working valiantly to reach their respective quotas, Superintendent Hopkins and Shelton of the Junior Boys Department are bucking down to some intensive efforts to bring that department up to the century mark. The little fellows of the basement are not to be overlooked any time, and when they start, something is bound to give way.

Special musical numbers will be rendered at the services and all in the officers are looking forward to one of the really big days in the history of the school. More than a thousand invitations have been sent out, while twice that number of personal calls have been made. It is no wonder that hopes are high and expectations great. The First Christians never do things by halves. They are out to win tomorrow and they doubtless will accomplish their purpose.

FIND NO TRACE OF FORGER

Efforts of the police to apprehend the check forger palling under the name of James Blair and a string of aliases, who has victimized a number of local business men, chiefly grocers, over the bogus check route the past few days, have so far been futile and the man has evidently moved on to new fields to work his game.

The officers scoured every nook and corner of the city yesterday afternoon and last night in a vigorous effort to catch the forger but he apparently has escaped the net.

Blair's game, which he worked with most success, was to order a bill of groceries, tender a check in payment and after receiving the difference would order the goods delivered to some street address.

J. J. Brushart, Gallia street grocer, was added to the list of the forger's victims Friday when the man ordered a bill of groceries amounting to $5 and received the difference on a $15 worthless check.

The police of nearby cities have been notified to keep an eye out for the forger.

Apple Show Is Not A Success

FRONTON, O., Sept. 11.—The Apple Show, the seventh annual event of its kind, passed into history last night. That it was far from the success achieved by past shows is, generally admitted, even by those who had the affair in charge. But the Apple Show is not dead. It is entirely too important an event to be permitted to die for want of interest.

The things that contributed to the deterioration of the show are numerous and it is needless to deal with them in detail.

HOT, DIZZY FEELING

Atlanta Lady's Uncomfortable and Annoying Condition Relieved, She Says, by Carbol.

Atlanta, Ga.—Miss Alice Frances Young, of 21 East Alexander Street, this city, says: "After entering womanhood, I suffered so much with womanly weakness. My back ached, I would have, at certain times, a hot feeling that seemed to go to my head. Even my shoulders would hurt, and it made me very dizzy and uncomfortable. When the hot and dizzy feeling came to my head, I suppose that was what it was—I would faint and feel so weak. I could do my work. I had a good position, and this was surely annoying as well as embarrassing. I would usually have to go home and go to bed. I certainly suffered greatly. Carry Cheer.

Everyone is called upon now and then to visit the sickroom. Conditions surrounding the bedside visitations present a wide variation. There is one rule that holds good under all conditions, and that is to carry cheer and sunshine—not a long face, but a smile. If the patients are able, talk to them of what is going on outside. Help them to forget themselves. A man who for over twenty years had been paralyzed, was visited by a friend who was profuse in expressing his sympathy and regret at the sick man's helplessness. As he was about to leave, the afflicted man said, "Come again, won't you, but when you do please forget to tell me that you are sorry for me, as everybody tells me that. I've heard it every day for twenty years. Help me to forget it. Bring me a breath of the outside world." Flowers are always a gracious help in making the sickroom a place of cheer. A book or a magazine also helps.—Thrill Magazine.

LEAGUE REGARDED AS DREAM ABROAD, ASSERTS BANKER

Mortimer L. Schiff.

The majority of the people of Europe now regard the league of nations as "a Utopian dream, which cannot solve the problems," declares Mortimer L. Schiff, New York banker, who has just returned from abroad. "The impression I received," said Mr. Schiff, "was that Europe is still suffering from the effects of the treaty, which has created artificial economic barriers, has engendered racial animosities and has bred suspicion instead of confidence."

Death early this morning of Lydia May Wheeler, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheeler, of Fullerton.

Seven months ago she was among other children who started a fire in a blacksmith shop at Fullerton. Her dress caught fire and she was badly burned about the body, the result of which death came today.

The child was a general favorite in the Fullerton neighborhood, and will be missed.

The deceased leaves to mourn their loss three brothers and two sisters, besides her grief-stricken parents, John and James at home, and William, who is in Camp Sherman and Gladys and Mary at home.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Burial will be in the Mt. Zion cemetery near Fullerton.

Louis Richley
Mrs. Louise Gordley, 926 Washington street, received a telegram Friday that death had claimed her father, Louis Richley at his home in Richmond, Ind. The deceased was 84 years of age.

Mrs. Gordley is the only surviving daughter. She left today for Richmond, to attend the funeral and burial.

Your Tribute To The Deceased

She Was Worth 50 Cents.
After marrying a couple, a negro factor was frequently taken by the bridegroom and asked, "How much do I owe you?" He had performed such a ceremony when the bridegroom, a freshly dressed negro who had experienced a great deal of emotion while the knot was being tied, whispered in his ear, "Parson, what do I owe you for marryin' us?" The parson pondered a moment and then replied, "As much as you think you're wife's worth." The bridegroom thanked him and then pressed something tenderly into his hand. It was a half a dollar.

Diamond Tests.
Diamonds of bright truth, red and green and blue, are immensely valuable, but where the light is right it only destroys the diamond's beauty. Color and clarity are due to the presence of impurities. Testing the genuineness of a diamond is very difficult and only an expert can be absolutely sure. Indication points are made sure by examining a thin layer of metal diamond on a glass or other transparent body. If such a gem is placed in oil the division between the real and fake crystal can be seen. There are a few other crystals that will cut glass, so that this test is not fully reliable. Ordinary fakes can be detected by running a nail file over a corner of the gem. A diamond will not be scratched. No acid will affect the brilliancy of a diamond.—The Kansas City News.

Money in My Shoes.
A Pole named Fritz Talla, traveling from America to Europe, was taken in recently in the U. S. C. A. by Waterloo, Ind. London, and removed to the infirmary. He had only two shillings (therefore in English money, but hidden in his clothing he had $2.50) and 100 pieces and never money to the value of $20. His shoes were found to be very heavy, and when they were photographed by the X-ray, 12 large coins, presumably $10 gold pieces, were found hidden between the leather and the soles of each boot.—Rocky Mountain Eagle.

The Markets

NEW YORK STOCKS
NEW YORK, September 11.—Trading was unusually light early in a week-end session at the opening of today's stock market. Price changes were restricted to fractions which in no instance exceeded 1/4 point. Some of the mills, oils and coppers eased, while others in the same groups advanced. Announcement over night of very large gold imports brought no relief to foreign exchange. Early quotations for British, French and Italian bills were lower.

Dearish influences prevailed during today's short session of the stock market, prices giving way in almost every quarter after an irregular opening. Mexican oils were under special pressure, and also rails and shippings, while coppers cancelled yesterday's gains. Leaders of the steel and equipment divisions also reacted in the absence of foreign exchange. Further weakness of oil and foreign exchange, which was the lowest quotations since last March, gave impetus to the decline, which ranged from 1 to 3 points. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 200,000 shares. Bonds were irregular but the new French issue rose to a premium of 1 1/2 percent on the curb.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS
CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Wheat prices started stronger today, there being a bullish sentiment in the market on account of the earlier tone in foreign exchange. Opening prices which were 1/2 to 1/4 higher, with December 2 1/2 and March 2 1/2, were followed by a slight decline but soon recovered the loss.

Corn started under pressure with a strong commission house being a good seller of December. After starting unsettled with prices 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, with December 1 1/2 to 1 1/4, the December delivery touched around 1.18 1/2 when buying against the high price bid checked the decline.

Oats were dull and easier with corn, starting 1/2 to 1/4 lower, and then displaying further weakness. Strength in hogs was reflected in provisions which averaged higher.

PENNY ANTE

Dr. Wilce Takes Charge Of S. S. U. Gridders

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—Recruited from five colleges, Ohio State's football coaching staff stacks up as one of the best in the country.

At the head of the instructing organization is Dr. John W. Wilce, who has arrived here to begin his eighth year as football mentor. Dr. Wilce, a most follower of the modern football, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where at one time he was an all-Western fullback and Varsity crew man. He also coached basketball.

Next to him the best known tutor will be Charles W. (Chick) Harley.

all-American back and greatest athlete produced at Ohio State. Harley probably will work with the backfield men and blockers, teaching the former the fine points of running, forward passing and defensive play—at which is a past master.

Two other Ohio graduates on the staff are George M. (Blondy) Trautman, Freshman tutor and Grant Ward line coach, both of whom played on the line in the last decade. Trautman is Varsity basketball coach also and assistant basketball coach.

Director L. W. St. John, member of the National Basketball Rules Committee and head of the Department of Physical Education here, also will aid in developing the 1920 Ohio State machine. He played in the backfield at Ohio State and Wooster nearly two decades ago.

Other members of the staff are Walter Easman, Freshman line coach and former Varsity player; Dr. J. Herbert Nichols, famous Oberlin quarterback of 15 years ago, and Frank R. Castleman, former all-American halfback who was a big cog on Colgate teams of some years ago. Easman also played at Christian Brothers College, St. Louis, where Ward was head coach.

Squads for Army.

The soldier in these days is a man of varied occupations. Indeed, there is hardly a trade known to civil life that is not practiced in the United States army.

For instance, in the signal corps a feature is made of raising hawking pigeons, to serve as carriers of intelligence, and the duty of breeding and training the birds is assigned to a section of that branch of the military service in which officers and men are specially educated for the purpose.

Otherwise All Right.

A prominent clubwoman says that women's besetting sins are envy, laziness, gluttony, jealousy and revenge. Outside of that, she is, we presume, the angel we have always liked to picture her.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Rattler Need Not Worry.

If man was constituted as a rattler he could whistle at the high cost of living. The rattler has solved it for itself. This gentleman among the reptiles, which gives warning before it strikes, eats only twice a year—once in the spring, after it wakes up from its winter sleep, and again in the fall, when it retires to its long rest. It grows its own clothes, too, and is not compelled to buy black stockings, charged for as wool, in the furnace. And any hole in the ground will do it for a home, so it evades paying rent.

Breaking a Record.

A man down East spoke his will into a photograph, thus giving his heirs a chance to break his record.

Senators Bolstered

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11.—Detectives working under the direction of Police Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton are busy today seeking to trace to its source the false rumor circulated over bookers and private wires yesterday, that two members of the New York team had been killed and Babe Ruth, popular singer, and others badly injured in an automobile accident just outside of Cleveland.

Detectives are seeking to establish the identity of the sender of the telegram and to this end are looking over the files of both Western Union and Postal lines.

Though there has been renewed talk that Joe Tinker and his partners might dispose of the Cubs club to local owners this winter, the present nobbling interests are buying players for next year. Announcement has just been made that infielder Bobby Clinton and outfielder Stan Thompson of the Bloomington Three-R club have been bought for fall delivery.

REDS GET LOFTUS

EVANSVILLE, IND., September 11.—The probable loss of the Evansville baseball team of the Three-R league will lose Morrison, Loftus, Meyers, Mann and Ziegler. Morrison will become coach of the High School at Bloomington, Ill., and is expected to join a big league team next season. Loftus will join the Cincinnati Reds. Johnny Mann will join the Southern Association and Ziegler is expected to be sold to some class A team.

PENNANT CINCHED

When New Haven beat Worcester yesterday, 12 to 10 that team clinched the flag in the Eastern league. The team is managed by Chief Bender, who formerly was a star hurler in the American league.

Big Race At Belmont

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The classic future, one of the richest stakes on the American turf, attracted nineteen two-year-olds at Belmont Park today. The race—a six furlong—has an approximate value of $32,000.

As an added attraction, the super-horse, Man O'War, last year's winner, will make a try for the world's record for one and one-half miles in the Jockey Club stakes, in which Sea

Mint and Danask, with equal weights of 118, were down as starters. Harry Payne Whitney's colt, Pri-dere, coupled with Kadous and Crocus, was the general favorite for the future prize. (Tire Logie owned by Max Hirsch, Kirk Lexington, owned by R. T. Wilson and the Green Tree stables' Touch Me Not, also had a big following.

SHARKEY VS. HERMAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Pete Herman, of New Orleans, bantam weight champion, was ready to defend his title at East Chicago today, against Jack Sharkey, of New York, in a scheduled ten round bout. Fight fans expect a sharp battle, as they remember that Sharkey won over Jimmy White, English flyweight champion, at Milwaukee several months ago.

SPEAKING OF BETTING HOW ABOUT THIS ONE?

As an example of how hard the gambling fever has hit Wichita Falls, Bettor, Jakey Atz, manager of the Fort Worth team relates the following story:

"Two of them who believe in betting real money—both are millionaires—were out at the last game between Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

"Who do you like today?" one asked the other.

"I'll take Fort Worth," the other replied.

"You're on, I'll bet you my acreage," and he named a certain tract, "against yours."

"It's a bet," the other said, closing the incident.

"And that acreage," says Atz, "was worth a paltry $35,000, that's all."

Will Build Immense Stadium

PASADENA, CALIF., Sept. 11.—Pasadena is planning to build a stadium for the east against west football game played here every New Year's day. W. L. Leishman, president of the Tournament of Roses association, which has charge of the games, recently suggested that the stadium be built on the order of the Yale Bowl. Mr. Leishman made his suggestion after inspecting eastern athletic fields.

Andres To Visit Old Friends

George Andres of Sioux City, Ia., will arrive here soon to visit old friends. At one time he was one of the best ball players ever sent out from the River City. He is in business in Sioux City and has prospered.

Moran-Martin Bout Off

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The Len moved back to Sept. 27, and will be the second offering of Richard. The tossed a monkey wrench into Tex opening show will be staged on Sept. 17, and will feature Bill Williams, John when it decided that he could not open up Dundee opposing either Willie Jack Madison Square Garden and the box-son or Lew Tendler. Martin left last for season with a heavy weight contest, fight for St. Louis, where he will box The Bob Martin-Frank Moran will his Sergeant Ray Smith on September 14.

Pittsburgh Eleven Tuning Up

PITTSBURGH, PA., Sept. 11.—The University of Pittsburgh football squad, in charge of Head Coach Glenn Warner and Assistant Coach Heron, is now in camp at Windber, Pa., where the candidates are being put through some hard work in preparation for the coming season. Coach Warner arrived here the day after Labor Day and took the players with him to camp, the first workout being held the following day. Heron, who was an All-American honoree as an end and Warner and Assistant Coach Heron is now in camp at Windber, Pa., where the candidates are being put through some hard work in preparation for the coming season. Coach Warner arrived here the day after Labor Day and took the players with him to camp.

Under the one year residence rule "Pop" has 55 men eligible for the varsity this year.

While Jimmy Burke's battling Browns and the Red Sox have only an outside chance of coping the flag in the A. They literally kept the Indians in the race during that club's disastrous slump recently by sacking New York and Chicago.

DEMPSEY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, September 11.—Jack Dempsey, the world's champion heavy-weight pugilist, and his manager, Jack Kearns, arrived here today to complete negotiations with the promoters of "Cunboat" Smith for a match in Boston late this month.

Kearns said the San Francisco back-its would be here tomorrow to conclude an agreement on terms of the contest. He added that Dempsey was in the shape, elated at his recent success in the bout with Mike, and looking forward confidently to meeting Smith.

Ruth's Homer Wins Game

The Indians could not make it two in a row from the Yankees yesterday, being defeated, 6 to 1. Ruth put his team to the merry when he slammed

SOME QUEER MASCOTS ON UNCLE SAM'S FIGHTING SHIPS

Every one of Uncle Sam's fighting ships has its mascot, and some of them are very queer indeed. Note the Panama sugar boat on the shoulder of the jack-in the center. He is the mascot on the battleship Alabama. The U. S. S. Michigan has a bird mascot—a parakeet—shown at the right. Geese are probably the commonest mascots. The one at the left is on the Kentucky, and the one below entertains the sailors on the big battleship Wyoming.

AGE AND EXPERIENCE SPEAK

AUL VON HINDENBURG, who as generalissimo, was the fighting German genius of the world's war, takes no stock in the alleged eagerness of young officers to enter into another war.

He frowns in deep and vibrant displeasure over and talk of that eagerness and declares Germany is in no condition to engage in hostilities and laughs in scorn when told that the rest of the world still regards her as a military menace. According to his view she has not enough of an army to maintain internal order and an aggressive fighting force is altogether beyond question.

What he does not say, but what is equally the truth, is that Germany has in the mass no taste for war. Doubtless, she has in her population thousands of hotheads and irreconcilables, who are not willing to accept even for the present the tremendous verdict at arms that went so heavily against her, but the people know they have lost beyond question and the future holds no promise except that of rehabilitation, pursued in the ways of peace.

It is, indeed, this conviction that makes General von Hindenburg's counsel so worth while. For above all things Germany needs not only peace, but the home order that goes with peace. Scarce can she ever again be in a position to be considered a menace to the rest of the nations, but with native thrift and industry she can build herself once again into a rich and prosperous land. Greater by far, in these respects, than she ever was since no more will she have to carry the burden of military and royal rule. Within her bounds hereafter, if each individual have not equal opportunity, he will at least have free hand to work and profit according to his energy and his talent.

ON TO BERLIN!

THAT was the famous war cry of 1917.

Then war was urging us into a frenzy of enthusiasm and passion.

On to Berlin is the calm statement of a business fact in 1920. Thus doth the world move.

According to an Akron manufacturer, who has just returned from Europe airships will be flying regularly between the United States and Germany within six months.

This is not a prediction, it is the statement of a fact already far advanced to the point of accomplishment. The ships are already being built in Germany and the first will fly in February. They will operate on a regular schedule, with San Francisco and Berlin as the terminals and Chicago, New York, London and Paris as the way stations. At the start two ships will be used and each will make the round trip in seven days, giving two days of arrival and departure a week.

American and German interests are combined in the enterprise and they expect to make a success of it, maintaining the service for both passenger and freight, the latter, of course, of the lightest commodities. The craft will be furnished as luxuriously as the finest sea ship, meals will be served aboard and service will be but little, if any higher, than on ocean liners.

Babe Ruth, having declared for Senator Harding, may come in handy in teaching the candidate how to make the run to the white house.

Postmaster General Burleson may be a little late in delivering the monthly bills, but it is noticed that they always arrive.

The League of Nations is said to be functioning, but it will require more than that to be convincing to its opponents.

Father will tell Willie that he was always glad when the vacation period was over, but Willie never seems to be convinced.

Thirty days would often do more good than ten dollars.

It costs more to sow wild oats than it did when father was young.

The higher the cost of traveling goes the more you save by staying at home.

The wormy apples will come into their own now that there is such a demand for cider.

It will be no credit to women if they show the same indifference to voting that so many men do.

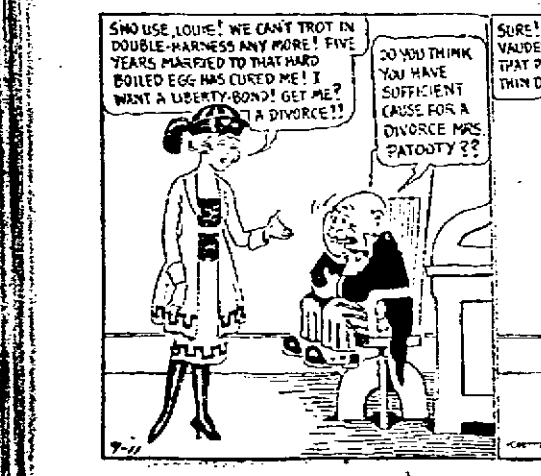

The ruling that liquor may be used in pastry should make pastry a more popular 'beverage.'

The man who lets his wife do his political thinking may now double his influence at the polls.

POLLY AND HER PALS

LOUIE, THE LAWYER

ON COMING BACK

THE little boy who kept hitting his head with a hammer explained on inquiry that he did it because he felt so good when he stopped. The little boy had the true philosophy of a vacationist.

About once a year we get a yearning to go away from where ever we are, to be different, to get out of our chosen path of life; and after much preparation and worry about where and how and when to go, we make the break and are gone.

And we are only away a little while when we begin to get restless; we have a new yearning, this time to get back, back to the comfortable routine of the years, back to the cozy bed with just the right size pillow, back to the easy chair of the front porch; back to the little nook in the scheme of things as they are; away from the half cooked yet burnt food of the wodos, away from the mosquitoes of the summer cottage, away from the knock-kneed nudity of the beach!

We have a feeling away down in the deep recesses of our soul that it's not the going away that helps; it's the coming back.

New-York - Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Manhattan has been intrigued—as the novelist says—the past week by a picturesque gypsy camp (10 up on Riverside Drive. Motor parties have been flocking there from Broadway and Jay-riders stop to have the fortune tellers predict what will happen before dawn.

One of the features of the gypsy encampment was a wedding. A boy of 12 to a girl of 13. The boy's father, according to the gypsy custom bargains with the girl's father for the bride to be. The price paid was $3,500 and then the entire camp got busy on sacramental wine—thereby thwarting the revenue sleuths.

The prairie schooner and fagged out ponies of an earlier period have disappeared. The gypsy now travels in gaudy colored flippers, which they trade with the same ability that they display in "hoss trading." This particular band of nomads came from Spain.

Although there are twenty-six families with them, there are only four names, the Miller, the Costello, the Adams and the Stevens. They adopt the Anglo-Saxon names.

I talked to Nick Costello, the king of the hand. He wore red and blue with a yellow sash and a purple cap and had a pink rose in his button-hole. He had a fierce black mustache and a brass ring in his left ear. I expected him to speak in accents but he talked the language of Broadway.

I asked him why. He traveled with his parents after being born in a gypsy camp in Egypt. At 18 he traveled through New York and decided to quit the moving life. He opened a shoe shining stand on Sixth Avenue. But he only remained there three years and he was off to join his hand in Romania. "It is the only life," he said. "Some day people will go back to the care free life of the gypsy. That will be the death blow of the city's lure."

THE DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

LINDSEY MEETS A POLISH COUNT, WHO IS IMMEDIATELY SMITTEN.

Paris is filled with foreigners—more so than with Parisians. All nations and races of the earth meet and play in this glowing city, and all tongues are spoken.

It is a sight to pronounce at the Grand Boulevards in the afternoons and catch the crowds in their festive spirits, and on their way to their afternoon appetitive, which is a most solemn rite with the Parisian.

This afternoon Cousin Cecil took me once more over to the Latin quarter and showed me around. We started at the Luxembourg gardens and made our way slowly to the Odéon theater, and in the shadows of this noble old building we feasted our eyes on the many book stalls that nestle close to its gray walls, and under its many arches. Such books! Every age and variety to be found here—very much like the places one finds in Charing Cross in London. We walked by the historic Hotel Cornelle, close by, and peered into its many windows, as though at any moment we might catch a glimpse of some of the Minis and Armands that at one time lived there; or even Henri Murger himself might emerge, in the spirit, and smile at the most modern curiosity. For in this old Hotel Cornelle most of the famous French writers and artists have lived and had their being, at some time in their lives. And history has been made within its walls.

On almost any street corner I expected to be greeted by "Trilby," Trilby swinging along as only she could swing, and smiling happily at the whole of the artist world that paid her homage. But alas! She never appeared, save in the form of some large and full-blown English maiden, on her way to "do the sights of the quarter." And such a British maiden, for all her red cheeks and "swing" for all her ray removed from Miss Trilby O'Farrell as the north pole is from the south pole. My Trilby had a soul. Up the Boulevard Montparnasse

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

JONKHEER RUY DE BEERENBROUCK, prime minister of Holland and one of the greatest foes of alcohol in all Europe, is scheduled to take a prominent part in the deliberations of the Fifteenth International Congress Against Alcoholism, which meets in Washington, D. C., Sept. 21-29.

De Beerenbrouck is president of the permanent international committee of the Congress Against Alcoholism.

This noted Dutch statesman and prohibitionist was born at Ruesselt, Holland, in 1872. He studied jurisprudence at the University of Leyden and became an expert on international law. From 1905 until 1918 he was a member of the Dutch house of representatives. In the latter year he became governor of the province of Limburg, and defied Lodenborff to send German troops across Limburg into Belgium.

De Beerenbrouck was president of the Temperance Catholic Society of Holland from 1900 until 1918, and has been at the head of the International Catholic Society Against Alcoholism since 1909.

We trudged once more, and met many gay students linked arm in arm, and singing for joy because the work of the day was over, and the revels of the night, a Paris night, were about to commence! Happy young things, and care-free—caps a-dit and ties a-waving in the autumn breeze, as lightly as their laughter, to the winds of heaven.

We reached the Cafe Rotonde, so dear to the hearts of the artists of all nations. It nestles close to the Metro station at the top of the Boulevard Montparnasse and the Rue Vavin, and its arms and doors are always open wide to the stranger within its gates—that's why we all love it so. Not far away—just around the corner—is the Boulevard Raspail—and across the way from its front door is the Dome cafe—and Thomas' restaurant, patronized by the American college of this section of Paris.

Crowds of students were seated round the tables outside the Rotonde when we arrived there, but we finally found a place, and then sat us down to thoroughly enjoy everything.

I was very much impressed with Cecil's "man-of-the-world" air, in this part of the city, for without doubt he is at home here and truly a "bon vivant." He ordered our vermouth and cassis, which is a typical Parisian drink, and most delicious, as though he had been born and bred right in that corner of the world! I had to smile, and what a goodly goodly drink this one is—the cassis is the juice of plums, and this mixed with vermouth is simply too delicate for words.

We had not been seated long before several friends of Cecil's swung by, and of course he made them feel chairs and draw up to our table. One only I remember with a pleasant emotion, and he was a very tall, very blonde and very romantic Polish count—Antoine de Chirac—very, very cavalier and very much smitten with little me. If you please. Just think what a commotion that would create in my circles in New York—the idea of a Polish count being at my feet, so to speak!

Step On It

"Cousin Henry," gaped the country visitor from Woodpecker Flats, "you just barely missed that man."

"Can't help it," belated his city relative, throwing her open another notch. "Haven't got time to go back and try again."

To Dampen His Ardor

"Why is it after we've been engaged seven years, your father objects to our marriage next April?"

"Well, my dear, father says you've been saving me for a rainy day."

Improving The Phone Service

Very appropriately the latest telephone directories have attached to them a card advertising an automobile "rent service," anywhere within the city limits for $1. One is reminded of the rule for getting a telephone message "across," which was published in New York: "For local calls, take a taxi; for long distance calls, take a train."—Dallas Journal.

Honest Milkman

"You are charged with selling adulterated milk," said the judge.

"Your Honor, I plead not guilty."

"But the testimony shows that it is 65 percent water."

"Then it must be high grade milk," returned the plaintiff. "If your Honor will look up the word 'milk' in your dictionary you will find that it contains from 80 to 90 percent water. I should have said it for cream!"—Success Magazine.

Where Suffrage Is Needed

"Dear, I've won the nomination."

Wife (in surprise)—"Fanciest?"

Politician—Now, what in thunder did you want to bring up that point for?"

One On Mrs. Clancy

Mrs. Clancy was a very sarcastic woman, and it is probably due to this fact that she had a falling out with her friend, Mrs. Murphy, who lived in the apartment just under her.

One day while Mrs. Clancy was feeling particularly mean she looked down from her window and saw Mrs. Murphy also enjoying the scenery. She could not resist the temptation to take a shot at her.

"O say, Mrs. Murphy," she called down in deep sarcasm, "why don't you take your ugly old mug out to the windy and put your pet monkey in its place? That'd give the neighbors a change they'd like."

Mrs. Murphy looked up.

"Well, now, Mrs. Clancy," she slowly said, "it was only this morning that I did that very thing, and a policeman came along and saw the monkey he bowed and smiled, and said: 'Why, Mrs. Clancy, what did you more down stairs?'"

Must Be Awful

An Australian dignitary was being entertained by New York society. For what seemed to be endless nights he was dragged through the intricacies of the pigeon walk, the fox trot, the camel limp and the rest. At last came his day of departure.

"Please, madame," he implored of his late hostess as they parted at the gang-plank, "don't ever come to Australia."

"But, why-why not?" gasped that surprised and offended lady.

"Because," answered the Australian, wiping his brow, "I don't want you ever to see a kangaroo at play."

Rope vs. Cigars

"Where did you get these cigars?"

"A friend of mine sent them up from Cuba."

"Your friend certainly knows the ropes down there."

The Sad Reason

Old Lady (to neighbor)—"But—my good mon, your story has such a hollow ring."

"Yes, misses—that's the natural result of speaking with an empty stomach!"—London Mail.

Why He Was Ravin'

"What did Doc's Haven mean by saying 'Nevermore'?"

"I don't know, but I know what he would mean if he were sitting on a just now and realized he could never again go on one."—Baltimore-American.

BILLY WHISKERS

Ever since the sky had cleared, following the storm, Billy had seen smoke off where war and sky seemed to join. Billy knew what smoke meant. Wherever there was smoke there were people and wherever there were people there was food; so he started toward it swimming a little bit and resting a little while between times. The smoke grew blacker and presently he saw a little speck under the smoke. It grew larger and larger, and by-and-by he was able to make out that it was a big ship coming in his direction. Poor Billy swam harder than ever then, and fortunately for him, the ship was coming almost straight toward him. Still more fortunately, the captain, sweeping the sea with his glass made out the life preserver holding up something white, and immediately thought it must be a woman in a white dress. He altered the direction of the ship slightly so that it came nearer to Billy and had ordered a boat to be lowered before he made out that it was only a goat, otherwise he might have passed on by. The boat, however, was already lowered, so he let it go.

The ship was a big passenger steamer, and by this time scores of passengers were thronging to the rails to see what the excitement was all about, and when the boat was drawn up, Billy a comical looking sight with his big life preserver around him, was placed on the deck. A boy among the passengers at once sprang forward with a shout.

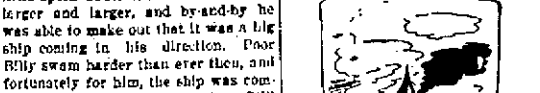

"Why, it's my Billy goat!" he cried.

"Papa, come and look! See the single marks on his back?"

Billy "loaded" joyfully. He rather liked Frank and was very glad that he had found a friend. The captain himself interested and amused had joined the crowd by this time.

"Your goat?" he asked Frank in amazement. "Do you always keep your goats out at sea in life preservers?"

"Not always," laughed Frank. "In fact, this is the only goat I have. We

Surprised Indeed

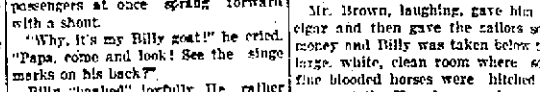

A one-armed man entered a restaurant at noon and seated himself next to a dapper little other people's business man. The latter at once noticed his neighbor's left sleeve hanging loose and kept cycling it in a hom-did-it-up pen sort of a way. The one-armed man paid no attention to him, but kept on eating with his one hand. Finally the inquisitive one could stand it no longer. He changed his position a little, cleared his throat, and said: "I beg pardon, sir, but I see you have lost an arm!"

The one-armed man picked up his steers with his right hand and peered anxiously into it. "Bless my soul!" he exclaimed, looking up with great surprise. "I do believe you're right."

Books the Best Friends

When once the love of books has come into a man's life he can never be lonely. He can never lose his interest in life, he can never be quite unhappy. Books are the friends that never fail, and the men and women that only live in books are the best and the most real friends of all. If I were to set down the names of the 20 friends who mean most to me, I should find that more than half of them lived in the novels of Dickens and Thackeray, Dumas and Daudet, Wells and Hardy and Meredith. The happy life is not spent altogether in the world of streets and shops and offices. A large part of it must be lived in the world of imagination. And living with the imaginations of great writers, we, too, learn to dream and the happiest hours in the world are the castles in the air that we build for ourselves. They are, indeed, the only homes the foundations of which are unshakable rocks.—Edney Dark, in John O'London's Weekly.

Great Battle At Millbrook Sunday P. M.

ARE INVESTIGATING BASEBALL FAKE

PENNY ANTE

Every fan employed at the Solvay plant, together with his brother will be at Millbrook Park Sunday afternoon, to cheer the champions of the Industrial League as they battle the All Stars, beginning at 3 o'clock sharp. Not only will the fans of the male persuasion be present in large numbers, but the pretty girls in the office have organized for the day and will be out in pretty gossamer and crepe de chine ready and anxious to root for the team that brought the pennant to the big plant.

There are many fans in Portsmouth who honestly believe the Champion Solvays can hand a defeat to the All Stars. In the first place, the Champions have played together and work like a well oiled machine. They will have the services of "Doc" Baughman who will be on the mound and every member of the Solvay team is ready to take the witness stand and swear until they are black in the face that Howard Ellsworth is the best southpaw pitcher in the entire state. When Baughman works, every player on the team is on his toes and so shot full of pep that it requires a mighty strong and fast team to hold them in check.

The Solvays will be strengthened for the Sunday engagement by Catcher Benton, one of the best players ever developed in this neck of the woods. Benton has been playing professional ball this year and is in the pink of condition and ready to show the fans some starting stunts on the base lines and with the bat. Seeing Benton in action will alone be worth the price of admission.

The Solvays know they are going to be up against some stiff defense when they face Eddie Donalds who will be on the mound for the All Stars. Donalds has practically recovered from the injury he sustained at Charleston a couple of Sundays ago, when his right hand was badly split in stopping a blue drive. Donalds has had a long rest and says if he loses he will have no excuse to offer, for he is all set for the game and will chuck his arm off to defeat the Champions.

The Solvay team will use their share of the receipts for the world series financial fund. The team will attend the world series classic in a body, regardless of where the games are staged, and they hope to have quite a nice sum in the strong box when the games start. All in all the game, tomorrow promises to be a genuine battle—staged between two teams of equal strength and clubs that will fight to the last ditch. Empire Yeager and Spencer will be the judge of play. Come and see the fun.

Dr. Wilce Takes Charge Of S. S. U. Gridders

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—Reverend from five colleges, Ohio State's football coaching staff stacks up as one of the best in the country.

At the head of the instructing organization is Dr. John W. Wilce, who has arrived here to begin his eighth year as football mentor. Dr. Wilce, a most successful of the modern college coaches, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where at one time he was an all-Western fullback and varsity crew man. He also studied in basketball.

Next to him the best known tutor will be Charles W. (Chick) Harley.

all-American back and greatest athlete produced at Ohio State. Harley probably will work with the backfield men and kickers, teaching the former the fine points of minding, forward passing and defensive play—at which is a past master.

Two other Ohio graduates on the staff are George M. (Blondy) Troutman, Freshman tutor and Grant Ward, line coach, both of whom played on the line in the last decade. Troutman is varsity basketball coach also and assistant basketball coach.

Director J. W. St. John, member of the National Basketball Rules Committee and head of the Department of Physical Education here, also will aid in developing the 1920 Ohio State machine. He played in the backfield at Ohio State and Wooster nearly two decades ago.

Other members of the staff are Walter Eschman, Freshman line coach and former Varsity player; Dr. J. Herbert Nichols, famous Oberlin quarterback of 15 years ago, and Frank R. Castleman, former all-American halfback who was a big cog on Colgate teams of some years ago. Eschman also played at Christian Brothers' College, St. Louis, where Ward was head coach.

Squads for Army.
The soldier in these days is a man of varied occupations. Indeed, there is hardly a trade known to civil life that is not practiced in the United States army. For instance, in the signal corps a feature is made of raising, building, repairing, and the duty of breeding and training the birds is assigned to a section of that branch of the military service in which officers and men are specially educated for the purpose.

Otherwise All Right.
A prominent clubwoman says that woman's besting sins are envy, laziness, stuttness, jealousy and revenge. Outside of that, she is, we presume, the angel we have always liked to picture her.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Rattler Need Not Worry.
If man was constituted as a rattler he could whistle at the high cost of living. This gentleman has solved it for himself. The rattler gives warning before it strikes, calls only twice a year—once in the spring, after it wakes up from its winter sleep, and again in the fall, when it retires to its long rest. It grows its own clothes, too, and is not compelled to burn black stoves, charged for as coal, in the furnace. And any hole in the ground will do it for a home, so it evades paying rent.

Breaking a Record.
A man down East spoke his will into a phonograph, thus giving his heirs a chance to break his record.

AGE AND EXPERIENCE SPEAK

PAUL VON HINDENBURG, who as generalissimo, was the fighting German genius of the world's war, takes no stock in the alleged eagerness of young officers to enter into another war.

He frowns in deep and vibrant displeasure over and talk of that eagerness and declares Germany is in no condition to engage in hostilities and laughs in scorn when told that the rest of the world still regards her as a military menace. According to his view she has not enough of an army to maintain internal order and an aggressive fighting force is altogether beyond question.

What he does not say, but what is equally the truth, is that Germany has in the mass no taste for war. Doubtless, she has in her population thousands of hotheads and irreconcilables, who are not willing to accept even for the present the tremendous verdict at arms that went so heavily against her, but the people know they have lost beyond question and the future holds no promise except that of rehabilitation, pursued in the ways of peace.

It is, indeed, this conviction that makes General von Hindenburg's counsel so worth while. For above all things Germany needs not only peace, but the home order that goes with peace. Scarcely can she ever again be in a position to be considered a menace to the rest of the nations, but with native thrift and industry she can build herself once again into a rich and prosperous land. Greater by far in these respects, than she ever was since no more will she have to carry the burden of military and royal rule. Within her bounds hereafter, if each individual have not equal opportunity, he will at least have free hand to work and profit according to his energy and his talent.

ON TO BERLIN!

THAT was the famous war cry of 1917. Then war was urging us into a frenzy of enthusiasm and passion.

On to Berlin is the calm statement of a business fact in 1920. Thus doth the world move.

According to an Akron manufacturer, who has just returned from Europe airships will be flying regularly between the United States and Germany within six months.

This is not a prediction, it is the statement of a fact already far advanced to the point of accomplishment. The ships are already being built in Germany and the first will fly in February. They will operate on a regular schedule, with San Francisco and Berlin as the terminals and Chicago, New York, London and Paris as the way stations. At the start two ships will be used and each will make the round trip in seven days, giving two days of arrival and departure a week.

American and German interests are combined in the enterprise and they expect to make a success of it, maintaining the service for both passenger and freight, the latter, of course, of the lightest commodities. The craft will be furnished as luxuriously as the finest sea ship, meals will be served aboard and service will be but little, if any higher, than on ocean liners.

Rabe Ruth, having declared for Senator Harding, may come in handy in teaching the candidate how to make the run to the white house.

Postmaster General Burleson may be a little late in delivering the monthly bills, but it is noticed that they always arrive.

The League of Nations is said to be functioning, but it will require more than that to be convincing to its opponents.

Father will tell Willie that he was always glad when the vacation period was over, but Willie never seems to be convinced.

Thirty days would often do more good than ten dollars. It costs more to sow wild oats than it did when father was young.

The higher the cost of traveling goes the more you save by staying at home.

The wormy apples will come into their own now that there is such a demand for cider.

It will be no credit to women if they show the same indifference to voting that so many men do.

The ruling that liquor may be used in pastry should make pastry a more popular "beverage."

The man who lets his wife do his political thinking may now double his influence at the polls.

ON COMING BACK

THE little boy who kept hitting his head with a hammer explained on inquiry that he did it because he felt so good when he stopped. The little boy had the true philosophy of a vacationist.

About once a year we get a yearning to go away from wherever we are, to be different, to get out of our chosen path of life; and after much preparation and worry about where and how and when to go, we make the break and are gone.

And we are only away a little while when we begin to get restless; we have a new yearning, this time to get back, back to the comfortable routine of the years, back to the cozy bed with just the right size pillow, back to the easy chair of the front porch; back to the little nook in the scheme of things as they are; away from the half cooked yet burnt food of the wodos, away from the mosquitoes of the summer cottage, away from the knock-kneed noddity of the heaches!

We have a feeling away down in the deep recesses of our soul that it's not the going away that helps: it's the coming back.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Manhattan has been intrigued by the novelists' story of the past week by a picturesque gypsy camp far up on Riverside Drive. Motor parties have been flocking there from Broadway and Tenth Avenue to have the fortune tellers predict what will happen before dawn.

One of the features of the gypsy encampment was a wedding—a boy of 12 to a girl of 13. The boy's father, according to the gypsy custom, bargained with the girl's father for the bride to be. The price paid was $3.50 and then the entire camp got busy on sacramental wine—thereby violating the revenue statute.

The plain schooner and fagged out ponies of an earlier period have disappeared. The gypsy now travels in swags of colored fluffers, which they trade with the same ability that they display in "boots trading." This particular band of nomads came from Spain.

Although there are twenty-six families with them, there are only four names, the Millers, the Castells, the Adamses and the Stencenes. They adopt the Anglo-Saxon names. I talked to Nick Castella, the king of the band. He wore red and blue with a yellow sash and a purple cap and had a pink rose in his button-hole. He had a fierce black mustache and a brass ring in his left ear. I expected him to speak in accents but he talked the language of Broadway.

I asked him why he traveled with his parents, after being born in a gypsy camp in Egypt. At 18 he traveled through New York and decided to quit the roving life. He opened a shoe shining stand on Sixth Avenue. But he only remained there three years and he was off to join his band in Romania. "It is the only life," he said. "Some day people will go back to the care free life of the gypsies. That will be the death blow of the city's race."

Men, women and children smoke cigarettes. I saw a little boy of seven inhaling with the abandon of a seasoned smoker. My friend Nick told me that many of the hands did not even know what country they were in—nor did they care. The main thing was to have plenty to eat and smoke. And perhaps to drink—said Nick with a wink.

A certain Broadway who craves attention was dining alone in evening regalia after the theatre the other night. It was a warm evening and after the crowd had been seated, he took a cigarette electric fan from his pocket and attached it to a pocket battery. He seemed to be full of electricity for when this failed to excite attention it was noticed that his cuff links were lit bulbs that flashed on and off.

It is remarkable how quickly the faded looks of yesterday fall into decay. I passed two the other afternoon. Ten years ago they were flashing with gayety. Some drivers of trucks at the curb were dining in the cafes in shirt sleeves. There was a feeling that no questions were asked at the desk. Once a hotel is given a bad name in Manhattan it recovers a low level quickly or is torn down.

Down at Marlinka's queer little magic shop on Sixth Avenue a contiguous theatre of magic has been opened. Marlinka has passed on—but his place is still the rendezvous for magicians off the road. Marlinka's card little for the patronage of the hotel. He always asked the curious to leave his place—but for the true artist there was a true welcome. Harry Houdini is the of the movement for the continuous theatre. The magic art has fallen into decline and an effort is going to be made to revive its popularity.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

LINDSEY MEETS A POLISH COUNT, WHO IS IMMEDIATELY SMITTEN

Paris is filled with foreigners—more so than with Parisians. All nations and races of the earth meet and play in this gleaming city, and all tongues are spoken.

It is a sight to promenade up the Grand Boulevards in the afternoons and catch the crowds in their festive spirits, and on their way to their afternoon repast, which is a most solemn rite with the Parisian.

This afternoon Cousin Cecil took me once more to the Latin quarter and showed me around. We started at the Luxembourg gardens and made our way slowly to the Odeon theatre, and in the shadows of this noble old building we feasted our eyes on the many book stalls that nestle close to its gray sides, and under the many arches. Such books! Every age and variety to be found here—very much like the places one finds in Charing Cross in London. We walked by the historic Hotel Corneille, close by, and peered into its many windows, as though at any moment we might catch a glimpse of some of the Mims and Armands that at one time lived there; or even Henri Murger himself might emerge, in the spirit, and smile at our most modern curiosity. For in this old Hotel Corneille most of the famous French writers and artists have lived and had their being, at some time in their lives. And history has been made within its walls.

On almost any street corner I expected to be greeted by "Trilby," Trilby swinging along as only she could swing, and smiling happily at the whole of the artist world that paid her homage. But alas! She never appeared, save in the form of some large and full-blown English maid on her way to "do the sights of the quarter." And such a British maiden, for all her rosy cheeks and "swinging" as is far removed from Miss Trilby O'Farrell as the north pole is from the south pole. My Trilby had a soul. Up the Boulevard Montparnasse

JONKHEER RUYSS DE BEERENBROUCK

Jonkheer Ruyss De Beerenbroeck, prime minister of Holland and one of the greatest foes of alcohol in all Europe, is scheduled to take a prominent part in the deliberations of the fifteenth International Congress Against Alcoholism, which meets in Washington, D. C., Sept. 21-25. De Beerenbroeck is president of the permanent international committee of the Congress Against Alcoholism.

This noted Dutch statesman and prohibitionist was born at Ruremon, Holland, in 1873. He studied jurisprudence at the University of Leyden and became an expert on international law. From 1905 until 1918 he was a member of the Dutch house of representatives. In the latter year he became governor of the province of Limburg, and defied Ludendorff to send German troops across Limburg into Belgium.

De Beerenbroeck was president of the Temperance Catholic Society of Holland from 1900 until 1918, and has been at the head of the International Catholic Society Against Alcoholism since 1909.

We treaded once more, and met many gay students linked arm in arm, and singing for joy because the work of the day was over, and the revels of the night, a Paris night, were about to commence! Happy young things, and care-free—caps a-tit and fling away from their laughter, to the winds of heaven.

We reached the Cafe Rotonde, so dear to the hearts of the artists of all nations. It nestles close to the Metro station at the top of the Boulevard Montparnasse and the Rue Vavin, and its arms and doors are always open wide to the stranger within its gates. That's why we all love it so. Not far away—just around the corner—lies the Boulevard Raspail, and across the way from its front door is the Dome cafe—and "Thomas," restaurant, patronized by the American clientele of this section of Paris.

Crowds of students were seated round the tables outside the Rotonde when we arrived there, but we finally found a place, and then sat us down to thoroughly enjoy everything.

I was very much impressed with Cecil's way of the world air, in this part of the city, for without doubt he is at home here and truly a "bon vivant." He ordered our vermouth and caviar, which is a typical Parisian drink, and most delicious, as though he had been born and bred right in that corner of the world! I had to smile, and what a goodly goodly drink this one is—the cassis is the juice of plums, and this mixed with vermouth is simply too delicate for words.

We had not been seated long before several friends of Cecil's swung by, and of course he made them find chairs and drew up to our table. One only I remember with a pleasant emotion, and he was a very tall, very blonde and very romantic Polish count, Antoine de Chirac—very, very clever, and very much smitten with little me, if you please. Just think what a commotion that would create in my circles in New York—the idea of a Polish count being at my feet, so to speak!

Step On It
 "Cousin Henry," gasped the country visitor from Woodpecker Plains, "you just barely missed that mine."
 "Can't help it," followed his city relative, throwing her open another notch. "Haven't got time to go back and try again."

To Dampen His Ardor
 "Why is it after we've been engaged seven years, your father objects to our marriage next April?"
 "Well, my dear, father says you've been saving me for a rainy day."

Improving The Phone Service
 Very appropriately the latest telephone directories have attached to them a card advertising an automobile "rent service," "anywhere within the city limits for $1." One is reminded of the rule for getting a telephone message "across" which was published in New York: "For local calls, take a taxi; for long distance calls, take a train."—Dallas Journal.

Honest Milkman
 "You are charged with selling adulterated milk," said the judge.
 "Your Honor, I plead not guilty."
 "But the testimony shows that it is 25 percent water."
 "Then it must be high grade milk," returned the plaintiff. "If your Honor will look up the word 'milk' in your dictionary you will find that it contains from 80 to 90 percent water. I should have sold it for cream!"—Success Magazine.

Politician—Congratulate me, my wife, I've won the nomination.
 Wife (in surprise): "Honestly?"
 Politician: "Now, what in thunder did you want to bring up that point for?"

One On Mrs. Clancy
 Mrs. Clancy was a very sarcastic woman, and it is probably due to this fact that she had a falling out with her friend, Mrs. Murphy, who lived in the apartment just under her.

One day while Mrs. Clancy was feeling particularly mean she looked down from her window and saw Mrs. Murphy also enjoying the scenery. She could not resist the temptation to take a shot at her.

"O say, Mrs. Murphy," she called down in deep sarcasm, "why don't you take your ugly old mug out to the windy and put your pet monkey in its place? That'd give the neighbors a change they'd like."

Mrs. Murphy looked up.
 "Well, now, Mrs. Clancy," she shortly said, "it was only this mornin' that I did that very thing, an' a polecat came along an' when he saw the monkey he bowed and saluted, and said: 'Wh-y, Mrs. Clancy, when did you move down stairs?'"

BILLY WHISKER

Ever since the sky had cleared, following the storm, Billy had seen smoke off where sea and sky seemed to join. Billy knew what smoke meant. Wherever there was smoke there were people and wherever there were people there was food, so he started toward it, swimming a little bit and resting a long while between times. The smoke grew blacker and presently he saw a little speck under the smoke. It grew larger and larger, and by-and-by he was able to make out that it was a big ship coming in his direction. Poor Billy, counting on the ship, was coming almost straight toward him. Still more fortunately, the captain, sweeping the sea with his glass made out the life preserver holding up something white, and immediately thought it must be a woman in a white dress. He altered the direction of the ship slightly so that it came nearer to Billy and had ordered a boat to be lowered before he made out that it was only a goat, otherwise he might have passed on by. The boat, however, was already lowered, so he let it go.

The ship was a big passenger steamer, and by this time scores of passengers were thronging to the rails to see what the excitement was all about, and when the boat was drawn up, Billy a candid looking fellow with his big life preserver around him, was placed on the deck. A boy among the passengers at once sprang forward with a shout.
 "Why, it's my Billy goat!" he cried.
 "Papa, come and look! See the single marks on his back?"
 Billy "bawled" joyfully. He rather liked Frank and was very glad that he had found a friend. The captain himself interested and amused had joined the crowd by this time.

"Your goat?" he asked Frank in amazement. "Do you always keep your goats out at sea in life preservers?"
 "Not always," laughed Frank. "In fact, this is the only goat I have. We lost him in Havre. The last I saw of him he was tied to the back of our carriage with a rope. When we got down to the wharf he was gone. Then we went down to Cherbourg, where papa had some business, caught your ship the next day and here we are. Now Billy ever got here from Havre, I don't know, but here he is and he's my goat."

"Well, according to the law of the sea," said the captain with a twinkle in his eye, "he's yours now and belongs to the men there who picked him up. Of course I have a share in the salvage too, but I'll take a cigar for mine."
 Mr. Brown, laughing, gave him the cigar and then gave the sailors some money and Billy was taken below to a large, white, clean room where some fine blooded horses were hitched in rosy stalls. Here he was given a big bowl of warm milk and a bed of clean straw, both of which he was very glad to get. As soon as he had drunk the bowl of milk, he felt so good and warm that he lay down and went sound asleep.

(Tomorrow Billy sees—well, you must wait until then to learn whom.)

Surprising Indeed
 A one-armed man entered a restaurant at noon and seated himself next to a dapper little other people's business man. The latter at once noticed his neighbor's left sleeve hanging loose and kept eyeing it in a how-did-it-happen sort of a way. The one-armed man paid no attention to him, but kept on talking with his one hand. Finally the inquisitive one could stand it no longer. He changed his position a little, cleared his throat, and said: "I beg pardon, sir, but I see you have lost an arm."
 The one-armed man picked up his sleeve with his right hand and peered anxiously into it. "Bless my soul!" he exclaimed, looking up with great surprise. "I do believe you're right!"

Must Be Awful
 An Australian digger was being entertained by New York society. For what seemed to be endless nights he was dinged through the intricacies of the pigeon walk, the fox trot, the camel jump and the rest. At last came his day of departure.

"Please, melancoly," he implored of his late hostess as they parted at the gang-plank, "don't ever come to Australia."
 "But, why-wh-why not?" gasped the surprised and offended lady.
 "Because," answered the Australian, wiping his brow, "I don't want you ever to see a kangaroo at play."

Rope vs. Cigars
 "Where did you get these cigars?"
 "A friend of mine sent them up from Cuba."
 "Your friend certainly knows the ropes down there."

The Sad Reason
 Old lady (to melancholy): "But—my good man, your story has such a hollow ring."
 "Yes, missus—that's the natural result of speaking with an empty stomach."—London Mail.

Why He Was Rarin'
 "What did Poo's haven mean by saying 'Severmore'?"
 "I don't know, but I know what he meant when he was sitting on a boat now and realized he could never again go on one."—Baltimore-American.
